*All the participants from other Colleges as well as the Ram Lal Anand College, voted for YES in the organisation criteria.

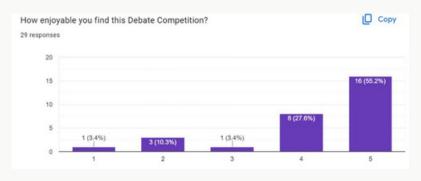

*The participants also mentioned that they are looking forward to participating in next upcoming events organised by the Department of Economics of Ram Lal Anand College.

*Major proportion of the participants were highly satisfied and rated the enjoyable experience criteria above 15 points. And 93.1% of the participants, gave their feedback as they came to know things regarding the topic G20 through the debate competition.

*Therefore all the participants as well as the Judges were highly satisfied with the event organisation and participation respectively. And responded in a very positive way.

MITIGATION AND STEPS TAKEN

• During the extempore event, a sudden refreshment shortage occurred because the exact number of participants was not confirmed. This oversight left many without water or snacks, causing discomfort and distraction.

ACTION TAKEN

• During the extempore event, a refreshment shortage occurred due to an unconfirmed number of participants. To prevent this in the future, we circulated a Google form for the next event to fix the number of definite participants. This measure ensures adequate supplies and smoother event management, avoiding previous frustrations.

CHARCHA MANCH

Date: 07 December 2023

Location: Seminar Room

Nature: Inter-College event

The Department of Economics, Ram Lal Anand College organized an Inter-College Charcha Manch: group discussion competition on 7th December 2023 to make the students express their veiws and insights on issue 2023 Noble prize winner for Economics (women earning and to promote the interest of economics enthusiasts in discussing global economic and political matters.

The judges for this event were:

- Ms. Srijana Singh (Dept of BMS)
- Dr. Soma Patnaik (Dept of Political Science)
- Ms. Megha Yadav (Dept of Economics)

EVENT HIGHLIGHTS:

- Competition Structure: Groups were formed spontaneously on the spot, and topics related to the 2023 Nobel Prize winner were announced by the judges. This impromptu format aimed to test participants' spontaneity, knowledge, and communication skills.
- •All participants were acknowledged for their active involvement, receiving certificates for their valuable contributions to the event.
- All the winners of the competition were awarded with an Appreciation certificate and cash prize.

MITIGATION AND STEPS TAKEN

• The Charcha Manch event saw low participation due to the exam season and insufficient advertising. Many potential attendees were preoccupied with studies, and the event's limited promotion failed to attract a wider audience. Consequently, the turnout was disappointing, highlighting the need for better timing and enhanced publicity in future events.

ACTION TAKEN

• To address low participation and poor advertisement, the next event was scheduled during a free period for students. Posters were widely circulated in more groups and on Instagram, reaching a broader audience. These efforts ensured better attendance and engagement, significantly improving the event's success.

IPL AUCTION

Date: 21 February 2024

Location: Amphitheatre

Nature: Inter-College event

The Department of Economics of Ramlal Anand College organized an engaging event centered around the Indian Premier League (IPL) auction, held at the college's Amphitheatre. The event aimed to provide students with insights into the economics and business aspects of cricket, particularly focusing on the IPL auction process.

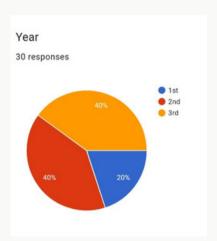

EVENT HIGHLIGHTS:

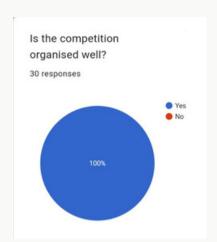

• The event commenced with a thrilling quiz competition designed to test participants' knowledge of cricket economics and IPL trivia. A total of 117 teams from various colleges enthusiastically competed in the preliminary round, showcasing their understanding of economic principles, player statistics, and IPL history. After a rigorous evaluation process, 10 teams emerged as the top performers, demonstrating exceptional aptitude and acumen in navigating the quiz challenges. These teams advanced to the final round, poised to showcase their strategic prowess in the simulated IPL auction.

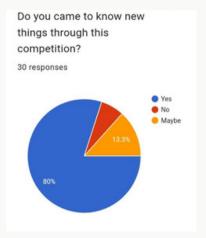

- The highlight of the event was the final round, where the selected teams engaged in a simulated IPL auction, assuming the roles of franchise owners. Participants strategically bid for players within allocated budgets, aiming to assemble competitive squads capable of clinching victory in the virtual arena.
- Participants strategized their bids meticulously, considering player ratings as a key determinant of their selection. The auction process was characterized by intense bidding wars, strategic calculations, and astute decision-making as teams vied to assemble competitive squads within allocated budgets.
- In the end, the winning team was determined based on the cumulative rating of the players acquired during the bidding process. The team that secured the highest-rated players within their budget emerged victorious, showcasing a blend of strategic acumen and economic prowess.

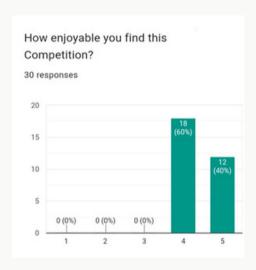

FEEDBACK

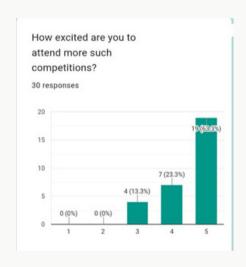

• Participants in the IPL Auction organized by Ram Lal Anand College's Economics Department lauded the well-organized event. 40% found it highly enjoyable, with 60% giving it a 4-star rating. They expressed excitement for more events, highlighting a successful blend of entertainment and learning in the competition.

• Overall, the feedback reflects a resoundingly positive experience for participants of the IPL Auction. The event not only provided entertainment but also served as a platform for learning and engagement. Moving forward, there is a clear opportunity to build upon this success and continue organizing events that resonate with the interests and aspirations of the participants.

IMPACT INITIATIVE

Date: 18th and 19th March 2024

Nature: Educational outreach program

Location: JJ colony, Moti Bagh

Ram Lal Anand College's Department of Economics arranged a two-day outreach initiative at JJ Colony, aiming to engage children through mentorship to enhance their involvement in educational and extracurricular endeavors.

EVENT HIGHLIGHTS

Day 1:

During the first day of the program, the emphasis was on fostering communication with children to encourage them to connect with the volunteers. Around 15 to 20 children from nearby residences participated. Each volunteer was assigned to 1-2 students, providing academic support and mentorship. The session lasted 45 minutes, concluding with volunteers distributing pencils and chocolate to the children, cultivating a friendly and inviting environment.

Day 2:

On day two, the program was enriched by the participation of volunteers from our department and our faculty adding to the excitement. The day was brimming with enjoyable activities, starting with a vibrant painting competition that showcased the children's creativity. Stuffed toys were presented as prizes to the winners, fueling their artistic aspirations. Furthermore, to ensure all participants felt cherished and acknowledged, everyone was treated to refreshments at the conclusion of the session.

The program was a great success, fostering a sense of joy and learning among the children. It showcased the dedication of our volunteers and the positive impact such initiatives can have on the community.

FEEDBACK

- We, the volunteers, had the privilege of being part of the 2-day outreach program, and it was an immensely rewarding experience for all of us. The program encompassed a diverse range of social activities, including providing education, organizing a painting competition, and engaging with children from the slum areas.
- Throughout the program, we witnessed firsthand the positive impact our actions had on the community. Interacting with the children was a humbling experience, and their enthusiasm and eagerness to learn left a lasting impression on us. The joy on their faces during the painting competition and the gratitude they expressed upon receiving donated items were truly heartwarming moments.
- As volunteers, we are grateful for the opportunity to serve our community and make a difference in the lives of those in need. We look forward to participating in more such initiatives in the future and continuing to spread kindness and positivity wherever we go.

OVERALL FEEDBACK

The Economics Department hosted a series of dynamic events that showcased the talents and enthusiasm of students from various colleges. Events such as Extempore, Charcha Manch, IPL Auction, and the Impact Initiative drew widespread participation and fostered a spirit of healthy competition and learning. Department members played a crucial role in organizing these events, gaining valuable experience in event management and teamwork. The sessions were vibrant and engaging, providing a platform for intellectual exchange and practical application of economic concepts. Overall, the events were a resounding success, highlighting the department's to fostering academic excellence commitment community engagement.
