He has extensive administrative experience, also currently serving as the Deputy Proctor of University of Delhi..

6. Brief summary of the event:

On October 25, 2024, the Indian Knowledge System Center at Ram Lal Anand College hosted an orientation program, where DU’s Deputy Proctor, Dr. Saurabh was the guest. Under the guidance of Principal Prof. Rakesh Kumar Gupta, the event began with the Saraswati Vandana and the lighting of the lamp, performed by the students of the Gyan Dastoor Committee.

Prof. Archana Gaur, the center’s advisor, honored the guest with a sapling, accompanied by nodal officer Dr. Kirti Punia and members Dr. Basant Mishra and Dr. Roshan Lal Meena.

Dr. Kirti Punia, the nodal officer, first expressed gratitude to the principal for his support. She explained that IKS (Indian Knowledge System) is an excellent initiative by the Government of India, AICTE, and UGC, aimed at promoting India’s rich knowledge and heritage worldwide. She highlighted the importance of connecting ancient knowledge with today’s modern world and encouraged students to get involved with the center.

Prof. Archana Gaur, the center’s advisor, remarked that our education and tradition are inherently ours and will remain so. No one can steal them from us. Even if someone tries, the creators were and will always be us. The Indian knowledge tradition encompasses everything. However, the modern generation is leaving this knowledge behind, merely following trends, and allowing knowledge to be scattered like debris. She provided insights on Indian knowledge tradition, mentioning that everything is found in our Upanishads, Vedas, and scriptures.

Dr Roshan Lal Meena stated that the center is open to students from all disciplines, with the main aim of providing full support for internships and research in the future. Dr. Basant then elaborated on the center's mission, explaining that its vision is to promote interdisciplinary research by expanding IKS for social applications. The goal is to raise awareness about ancestral knowledge across various fields through academic means. The center will actively engage in spreading the rich heritage and traditional knowledge of our country in areas such as arts and literature, agriculture, basic sciences, engineering and technology, architecture, management, economics, and more.

The entire program was hosted by students: Mahi Gautam (Department of English) and Aman Sharma (Political Science), while students from the BJMC Department covered the event. And all students coordinators helped to maintain the discipline and the decorum of the entire Orientation.

New Delhi: We are getting to know India, but we are not truly recognizing it. We need to understand, value, and embody India's knowledge tradition, becoming true Indians and thus building India. Leaving behind our mother tongues, we are getting educated in other languages. Why? We should receive education in our mother tongue. No one has been able to bury India and its knowledge tradition in the dust. Those who tried were themselves buried. Our education teaches us capability, not incapability. These words were shared by Dr. Saurabh ji at the orientation event organized by the Indian Knowledge Tradition Center.
