The Department of English, Ram Lal Anand College, Delhi University functions to promote literature, and it's various concepts. Further the society functions to develop literary interest and Creativity among the students by organizing various events, lectures and interactive sessions.

A webinar was organised by the society on Interpreting Abhijanashakuntalam which took place on an online platform Google meet on 28 February 2022 with professor Sadashiv Kumar Dwivedi (professor of Sanskrit coordinator, Bharat Adyayan Kendra). He explained about Sanskrit literature, kalidas's writings. He also demonstrated about the significance of the title Abhijanashakuntalam, theme of shakuntala.

After the discussion we had a Q/A round, students asked their doubts and questions one by one along with this a feedback form shared in the chatbox where students were allowed to share their feedback through out this webinar. The reviews which most of students have shared were about the length of the webinar which could be adjusted as the webinar was quite extensive and students were more likely to have better understanding if more of English language has been added to it. The webinar was really interesting and had a very fruitful discussion. Around our staff and 200+ participants were benefited through the session. The webinar came to an end with the vote of thanks proposed by our host, staff and all the participants.

The webinar conducted turned out to be huge in the guidance of society's convenor Dr. Ritambhara Mishra, event coordinator Dr. Perna Malhotra and all the executive members of the society.
